Alternative uses for park sought

by Susan Grober

Now that Lutterworth council has officially postponed development of its industrial park site, the township will now consider alternative uses for the property.

At last Tuesday's meeting, council voted against pursuing development of the property in 1992 because of the increased tax burden which would be created.

"I feel that's our only alternative," said Councillor Maurice Boyd. "It's the wrong time to burden the taxpayers of Lutterworth township."

Council decided to keep the property, and maintain its industrial zoning.

New Reeve Cam Ecclestone said some people have suggested to him that the property could be used for other purposes, and asked whether this would be feasible.

"What about a Christmas tree farm?" he said. "We could give everyone in the township a free tree."

Ecclestone said this could be a project for two students, and asked whether the township can obtain trees for free.

"The government is closing the Orono nursery where we used to get trees," said Councillor Bill Valentine, adding he didn't know where else the township could get the trees.

Boyd said the property is already heavily treed, and wasn't sure whether there would be room to plant Christmas trees.

Ecclestone maintained that it would be worthwhile to consider other options for the property until the township can afford to develop it as an industrial park.

Girl, 8, dies in car accident

An single car accident near Eagle Lake has taken the life of an eight-year-old girl.

Sarah Burk was killed when the car she was in crashed into a rock cut on County Road 14.

Injured in the accident were Anne-Marie Cochrane, age 27, and her 7-year-old daughter Ashley, both of Eagle Lake.

According to Minden OPP, the accident occurred shortly after 4 p.m. on December 1. The car, driven by Anne-Marie Cochrane, left the roadway on a sharp curve and struck a rock cut.

Both of the children were sitting in the front passenger seat. Sarah was killed on impact and Ashley received serious head and internal injuries. Anne-Marie's injuries included a cracked vertebrae. Anne-Marie and Ashley were taken to Haliburton Hospital and airlifted to Toronto.

At last report, Ashley was still in a coma at the Hospital for Sick Children and her condition has been downgraded from critical to serious.

Anne-Marie was taken to Sunnybrook Hospital. Her injuries are not described as life-threatening. No charges have been laid and police are continuing their investigation.

Day care operators applaud wage hike

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

A recent announcement by the Ontario government of a funding initiative to increase the wages paid to day care workers is being applauded by local day care operators.

"It's another step in the right direction," said Sue Valm, executive director of the County of Haliburton Agency for Child Enrichment (CHACE), in an interview last week. "The fact that these monies are coming down in a time of recession makes in more significant."

CHACE operates a licensed day care centre in Minden, two drop-in resource centres and also provides private home day care in the county.

Last week, social services minister Marion Boyd announced that non-profit child

Kinmount bank closes due to robbery threat

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The Kinmount office of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce has been closed because managers feel the risk of armed robbery is too great.

The office is a subagency of the Coboconk CIBC and was only open three days a week. The manager of the Coboconk CIBC says the closure of the Kinmount office is only temporary, but could not say when it will re-open.

"It's a temporary measure for security reasons," manager Karen Acton told The Times on Friday. "The office is not a full branch and is not equipped with a vault."

Acton said the decision was made by the district manager in the wake of recent bank robberies in the area.

"The last straw was the robbery in Bobcaygeon," she said. During the robbery in Bobcaygeon, a shot was fired inside the bank by the robber. There have been two other armed robberies in Victoria County in the last three weeks.

"The district manager feels, with the safety of the employees and the customers, that the degree of risk is unacceptable," said Acton. "It will be closed for an indefinite period of time, until senior management feels the risk level has been reduced to an acceptable level."

While the Kinmount office has not been robbed before, Acton says the Kirkfield location, which is also a subagency of the Coboconk CIBC, has been robbed twice in recent years.

Kinmount customers will now do their banking at the Coboconk branch. Acton says personal account holders can do their banking at any branch of the CIBC and businesses are being offered free night deposits or can do their banking at other branches, such as Minden, at no additional charge.

At least one resident of Kinmount is not impressed with the decision to close the office.

"If it wasn't so stupid, it would be funny," business owner Keith Stata said on Friday. "This is the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce we're talking about, not some banana republic."

Stata said the closure will affect customers who may not have transportation to get to the bank in Coboconk and he said businesses will now have to drive half-an-hour to do their banking.

'Tax free' sales illegal, says revenue ministry

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Since the federal government's seven per cent Goods and Service Tax (GST) was introduced last January, it has been widely reviled by consumers and merchants alike.

Many stores have capitalized on the anger by holding tax-free sales and entire communities, such has Haliburton Village, have held tax revolts where customers were not charged either the GST or the eight per cent provincial sales tax (PST).

But Ontario's Ministry of Revenue says it is illegal for stores to advertise that they will not collect the provincial sales tax on taxable items.

Under the provincial Retail Sales Tax Act, vendors are prohibited from paying the tax on behalf of customers or refunding the amount of tax on items purchased.

Although the Act is not a new piece of legislation, it has recently received media attention following a tax-free day in a southern Ontario community.

The Business Improvement Area (BIA) in the town of Wallaceburg sponsored the tax revolt during which customers were told they would be required to pay either the GST or the PST.

Although there is no problem with discounting the amount of the GST, ministry official warned the chairman of the BIA that the advertising was illegal as it related to the PST.

In a recent interview, Vick Festing, a tax advisory manager with the ministry's head office, told The Times that the law has its roots in the British North America Act (BNA) which sets out the taxation powers of the provinces.

"Provinces can not levy an indirect tax," he said. "When a vendor pays the retail sales tax, the customer is being taxed indirectly if it is done in such a way he believes he hasn't paid the tax."

As an example, Festing says on a $100 item, which is advertised as "tax-free" the customer pays for the purchase and leaves the store believing he paid no tax.

However, the store owner then calculates that of the $100 paid, $7.41 was the amount of the PST and $92.59 was the actual retail price. In this way the customer has actually paid the tax, without realizing it.

The ministry does not have the manpower to enforce the Act on a province-wide scale, and Festing says the action taken by provincial officials in Wallaceburg was no different than the action taken when other communities, like Madoc or Blenheim, held their tax revolts.

He said the ministry is not rushing down to Wallaceburg to audit those businesses which participated in the sale. He said if incorrect amounts of provincial tax were collected during the course of the sale they will show up during the normal auditing process.

If businesses have unknowingly remitted an incorrect amount of tax, they can be required to pay the correct the amount and may be assessed a penalty totalling 25 per cent of the tax they should have collected.

In more serious cases, the province can prosecute businesses under the Retail Sales Tax Act and court fines of up to $5,000 can be imposed.

The chances of the province taking action against a specific store for advertising a "no PST" sale will depend on whether or not ministry official become aware of the sale by seeing the ad or receiving complaints from a consumer or another business.

Long-term health care sees constant change

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Long-term care in the province of Ontario is changing, and government officials say people can not expect to maintain the status quo.

In October the government released a consultation paper on the issue entitled Redirection of Long-term Care and Support Service in Ontario, which outlines proposed changes to the health care and social services system.

Representatives from the social service ministry were in Minden last week to present the report to local residents and explain some of the changes the province would like to see.

The changes include:

Consolidating community-based and home care services to make it easier for people to access the care they need;

Altering funding to nursing homes and homes for the aged to reflect the care required by residents;

Redistributing existing long-term beds to address disparities across the province; and

Placing more emphasis on community-based services which allow people to stay in their own homes longer and reduce the reliance on institutional care.

At a meeting held at Hyland Crest Home for the Aged last Monday, three representatives of the community health and support services branch of the social services ministry presented the proposed changes.

Dennis Ferenc said the reform focuses on the care required by elderly people, people with disabilities and the family and friends who provide much of the care for these individuals.

One of the prime objectives of the reform process is to reduce the reliance on institutions. Ferenc said that 80

Park site may be used

"Maybe we could look into doing something to benefit the taxpayer, and be a little more creative as a group," he said.

Boyd worked on the industrial park project for quite some time, and is frustrated over recent setbacks which have forced the township to postpone development.

Originally, the plan was to recoup the $100,000 needed to build a road as access to the park by selling five of the property's 21 four-acre lots.

But a costly requirement by the Ministry of the Environment is holding up the plan. When the township applied for the initial (MITT) grant earlier this year, the application was circulated to other ministries for consideration.

The environment ministry gave its approval on three conditions: standards must be followed regarding distance of development from residential areas; only dry industrial uses are to be allowed, meaning water may only be used for domestic purposes; hydrogeological studies must be performed to determine possible impact of development on the water table.

This study would consume a grant already provided by the Ministry of Industry, Trade and Technology (MITT) to assist development of the site, located on Highway 121, north of Kinmount.

The ministry was to provide 33 and a third per cent for some aspects of developing the site, and up to 50 per cent for other aspects.

When the actual grant came through, the amount was considerably lower than expected, says Boyd.

"Now that won't even cover the cost of the hydrogeological study," he said, adding: "We certainly can't increase the cost of the lots to people."

Consultants have estimated a cost of $48,465 for the hydro-geological study, which covers: $13,165 for paperwork on test pits and soil samples; about $27,000 to drill three test wells; and an $8,300 contingency fund for monies available.

"And on top of all that, we have to pay the GST," says Boyd, who feels the above estimate is low and the actual cost could be more than $50,000.

Also, the $100,000 road must be built on the property before the consultants can get access to the whole 30 acres to perform the tests.

Meanwhile, Lutterworth has two people interested in purchasing lots in the industrial park. "One of the fellows who is still interested wants four to five acres," says Boyd. "But I don't know how long any of these people are willing to hang on."

Open, responsive Minden council will hold regular forums for input

Reeve Bern Berry has promised to strive for a more open and responsive municipal council.

His comments were made at the inaugural meeting of the Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council held last Monday morning.

The comments followed a formal swearing in of the newly elected officials and a prayer for guidance and leadership offered by Reverend Jim Fast.

In his comments to the audience, Reeve Berry said he is enthusiastic about the new council members and is looking forward to working with them.

"I think we can work effectively together," he commented.

The reeve said one of the main efforts of the council will be to open the lines of communications between the council and the ratepayers. He said the council will be preparing a regular column, which will appear in this newspaper, to keep local residents up to date on municipal activities. He said the council also plans to distribute a newsletter to local ratepayer associations.

The reeve also offered to provide an "open forum" every three or four months. He said the gatherings would offer an opportunity for residents to discuss their problems with the council on a face-to-face basis.

Berry predicted the next few years will be "tough ones" for the municipality. "It will be a time to be innovative, a time to get the most out of our tax dollars," he commented.

The members of the council added brief comments following the reeve's opening remarks.

Deputy Reeve Lewis Stevens said that while the council members may have disagreements during their term in office, he said they will have respect for each other as individuals.

Councillor Jean Anthon accepted her position on a council as a "great responsibility." She said one of her major tasks will be to improve communications between the ratepayers and the council.

Councillor Grant Plooard said he was looking forward to the challenge of the next three years and will be concentrating his interests in the area of the environment.

Councillor Jerry Rome, stressing the need for greater financial responsibility, said he was looking forward to using his years of experience as a bank manager to monitor the spending of the taxpayer's dollars.

Following these brief statements, the council adjourned to meet informally with the citizens who were in attendance and the municipal department heads also on hand.

Laxton council holds inaugural meeting

by Jerry Grozelle

The new council of Laxton, Digby and Longford was sworn in at the inaugural meeting December 2 at the Township office in Norland. Clerk/Treasurer Brenda Greer conducted the swearing-in ceremonies.

Reeve Doug Horton offered his congratulations to the rest of the council members after calling the meeting to order.

Horton pointed out that he will not tolerate personality conflicts among the members of council, a problem that he says plagued the previous council. "The rewards," Horton told his fellow council members, "are few and far between. All of our abilities, I'm sure, willbe taxed to the limit."

The new Reeve indicated that he intended to conduct the council meetings with "a certain amount of informality", while maintaining order.

None of this term's council members are returning from the previous council. Voters in the three townships chose to clean the slate and start over with a completely new council. But, as Horton pointed out, with the exception of Deputy-Reeve Mike Riordon, the other members, including himself, had more ballots cast against them than for them.

During his campaign, Horton found that foremost on the minds of the constituents of the riding was taxes. "Everybody is fed up with taxes," he said. The Reeve-elect challenged the newly installed council to set a goal of zero increase in the mill rate and to set an example by improving and stream-lining the operation of the township's affairs.

Deputy-Reeve Mike Riordon said: "I'm very happy with the council that has been elected. I think we have a good council." Riordon echoed Horton's sentiments that there is no room for personality conflicts among the members of council. Although he readily admits that he does expect some disagreements, he doesn't think those disagreements should be disruptive to the smooth operation of the governing body.

Committee Appointments

Among the items on council's first agenda were appointments to the various municipal committees.

Following are the members who will represent council on those committees:

-Roads - Councillor Lynn Peel and Councillor John Macklen.

-Building/By-law/Ontario Home Repair Program (OHRP) -Reeve Horton, Deputy-Reeve Riordon and Councillor Macklen.

- Fire - Councillor Vernon LeCraw and Deputy-Reeve Riordon.

-Waste Disposal - Reeve Horton and Councillor Macklen.

-Recreation -Councillor LeCraw and Deputy-Reeve Riordon.

-Administration and Finance -Councillor Peel.

Clerk/Treasurer Brenda Greer will also serve on the Administration and Finance Committee.

By-laws passed

Two by-laws were passed at the inaugural meeting. The first was to re-zone the property on which the township shed is located. This was necessary because of it's proximity to the landfill site, the control of which is being assumed by the County of Victoria.

The other by-law is a fire protection agreement with the Township of Lutterworth. Laxton already has a fire agreement with Somerville Township. Other neighbouring townships are covered by mutual aid fire ptotection agreements.

Holiday hours

The Laxton, Digby and Longford Township office will be closed Christmas Day, Boxing Day and New Year's Day. In addition, the office will close at noon the day before Christmas and at noon the day before New Year's. Next meeting: A second council meeting this month has been scheduled for Tuesday, December 17 at 7 p.m. in the Township office.

Lutterworth may introduce financial watchdog

by Susan Grober

The following matters were discussed at the inaugural meeting of Lutterworth council last Tuesday.

Budget watch

Lutterworth's new reeve would like to see council appoint a financial watchdog.

Reeve Cam Ecclestone made the proposal while council considered its various committee positions.

"I would like to add a financial watchdog position, just to ensure the bills and things are all the way they should be," said Ecclestone. "And I'm not for a minute suggesting there's something wrong."

Council decided to consider the suggestion, and will make a final decision before February.

Mileage matters

Seeing that the new reeve isn't a Lutterworth resident, there will be a few changes in figuring out council's personal expenses.

Normally, councillors receive mileage for traveling to meetings from home.

But Councillor Lisa Mercer said she didn't find it fair for the township to pay mileage from Toronto, where Reeve Cam Ecclestone resides.

Ecclestone said he already considered the matter, and will receive mileage for travel from his Gull Lake cottage.

"When I was campaigning, that was one thing that was brought to my attention — your travel expenses," said Councillor Maurice Boyd.

"To my attention, too," Ecclestone said with a laugh.

Still, there will be some extra expense to send packages to Ecclestone by courier, so he may absorb information before each meeting.

"That should cost about six or seven bucks, or so," he said.

Date change

Regular meetings of council will now be held on different dates.

Following a suggestion made by Reeve Cam Ecclestone, council passed a bylaw to hold its meetings on the first Thursday of each month at 4 p.m., and on the third Thursday of each month at 7 p.m.

Lutterworth Briefs

However, because of the holiday season, the first meeting of 1992 will be on January 16.

Previously, meetings were held more frequently, on the third Thursday and the second Tuesday after that.

Sewage systems

Council has given its support to a resolution regarding inspection of sewage systems passed by Limerick Township.

According to a letter from Limerick Township, the environment ministry "grandfathered" sewage disposal systems in 1974, to allow existing sewage systems to remain in operation without a Certificate of Approval.

Limerick council feels this policy limits municipalities in objecting to known cases of grossly inadequate systems that are possibly polluting lakes and altering water quality.

On October 18, Limerick council urged the Ministry of the Environment to amend the Environmental Protection Act to include some measure of inspection, and correction if necessary, to those sewage systems that were installed before April 15, 1974.

The Limerick resolution states "many municipalities are concerned with the high pollution levels contributed by inadequate setbacks and outdated sewage systems".

The motion has been circulated to all municipalities in the province for their endorsement, and to the Ministry of the Environment and to the Association of Municipalities of Ontario.

"I think it should be supported," said Lutterworth Councillor Bill Valentine.

Snowmobilers

The Haliburton County Snowmobile Association has been granted permission to use a portion of the township's industrial park property.

All members of council agreed to the association's request, provided that the township be protected from any liability.

Also, Councillor Maurice Boyd suggested a stipulation that snowmobilers must use the property's existing entrance off of Highway 121.

The association may use the property from January 1 until March 31, 1992.

Day care wage changes for the better, says Valm care workers will be receiving up to $2,000 in wage enhancements within the next few weeks.

"The child care wage enhancements will affect all staff including child care workers, office staff, cooks, drivers, cleaning personnel and others employed by the non-profit child care services," Boyd said when announcing the wage enhancement. The decision is part of the provincial government's policy that taxpayers' dollars are best spent on non-profit child care.

Valm says that in addition to the $2,000 being paid to child care staff, private home day care providers will receive a lump sum payment of $1,000. She says this will act as an incentive for providing more private home day care spaces in the county.

"I hope this will address the credibility associated with the child care profession," she said. Private home day care costs parents $19 per day, of which the provider receives $16.20. Valm says this averages out to an hourly rate of about $2/hour for the provider.

"We're asking providers to provide an accountable service which is comparable to day care centres, but in a more informal setting," she said. "It's a big request when we're only paying the equivalent of $2/hour. It makes it difficult to back up the value we place on child care."

Although pleased by the announcement, Valm says there is still more room for improvement in the province's child care policy. Even with the $2,000 wage increase paid to full-time workers, the average salary for a day care teacher is just $21,000.

"It's a good continuing step in support for child care, and we're thankful for it," she said. "I think the government will see results for its efforts."

The search for a peaceful Canada

Last week about 50 people gathered in downtown Haliburton to remember the 14 women who were shot and killed two years ago at a Montreal university.

The shock and horror of the most brutal mass murder in Canada's history will continue to focus a great deal of attention on the problem of violence against women.

But it is important to remember, in the midst of the memorial services and emotional speeches, that the problem of violence in our society is always with us.

It is not enough to observe a moment of silence each December 6, when women will still be victimized and abused on December 7 and each and every other day of the year.

It is not enough for politicians to wear white ribbons in recognition of a serious problem, and continue to cut funding for shelters and relief programs.

It is not enough to pass restrictive gun control legislation which addresses a minority of violent crimes in Canada, but does nothing to address the societal conditions which allow the hurting to continue.

It is not enough to encourage women to leave abusive situations and take refuge in shelters, without addressing the real problems which result in abuse in the first place.

All of these initiatives are important, but until we come to terms with the fact that every day Canadians are hurting and killing other Canadians, they will serve as mere Band-aid solutions to a much larger problem.

While we mourn the loss of 14 women, let us each look at our own lives and how we can be part of the solution. This issue knows no boundaries and affects all regions of the country and every segment of society. Minden is no more immune to the tragedy than Toronto, or Montreal.

So we will mourn and we will remember, but we must also move ahead to ensure that some day Canada will be the peaceful country we can all be proud of.

Millions of Americans are packing plastic money

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

Just between you, me and that life-size cut-out of Karl Malden...could you live without credit cards?

I could. For about 30 days — 28 if it's February and a leap year. I hate to admit it, but credit cards have got me sewn up, nailed down and also treble-hooked through the lower mandible.

And I'm not alone. Most adult Canucks are packing plastic these days. A couple of years ago, a study by Royal Trustco Limited indicated that somewhere between 13 and 14 million credit card holders pay off their balances every month. The other hapless half keeps wracking up the charges and getting further and further behind the financial ball.

It's ironic just how ubiquitous — and how accepted — the credit card has become. I can use it to buy gas, alfalfa meal or hockey tickets without raising an eyebrow. I can roll through some major department store in a strange city, outfit myself with a new wardrobe, matching luggage, a whole set of ski equipment and a den full of books and CD's. I can blow into a five star restaurant, order filet mignon, the best Bordeaux with, a Havana Corona and a snifter of 20-year old brandy to wash it down...

And I might not have a subway token to my name. All I have to do when I'm through is wave my magic plastic pellet, figure out the tip and sign my name on the dotted line.

Sure, there's a dread reckoning at the end of each month, but it's easy to forget that when you see a tennis racket you lust for or a sweater with your name on it.

That's the problem with the credit card — it's too easy.

Native land claims must be settled fairly

Editor:

I have just received a copy of your issue of November 19, with the message from our member, Dennis Drainville, regarding Algonquin Park.

It was inconceivable that our Minister of Natural Resources and of Indian Affairs, Bud Wildman, would carry out his threat to allow the killing of wildlife in Ontario's first and oldest park. It is even more unbelievable that our member, elected to uphold the wishes of his constituents, would condone and even support this raping of our national heritage.

Mr. Drainville's message contains a few minor errors.

First, the groups that he indicated were involved in a consultation process are all on record as complaining about the lack of consultation. Where there was "consultation", it was lip-service only, since suggestions put forward by various groups were in the main ignored.

Second, the hunting agreement does not only include moose and deer, it includes ancillary animals, with the exception of loons, wolves and endangered species.

Third, the Golden Lake Band is made up largely of Nipissings, not Algonquins.

The Interim Agreement is a sloppy document. Natives are to monitor themselves with regard to numbers taken, with the government funding the hiring of native personnel, complete with vehicle and appropriate equipment, to ensure that the agreement is observed. Line up for that job, natives. This makes a mockery of our game laws and conservation policies.

To quote John and Janet Foster, in a letter to Bob Rae: "Offering to settle aboriginal disputes with dead moose is to suggest that we have run out of colored beads. Modern, thoughtful aboriginal leaders would be demeaned by attempts to settle their land claims with dead animals in parks."

Mr. Wildman's actions indicate that he does not have the interests of the great majority of Ontarians at heart. He is intent on settling native claims regardless of the damage he does to our carefully nurtured park system.

I hope that my fellow Haliburtonians will join me in a loud vocal protest to Mr. Drainville and Mr. Wildman. Let's settle the native land claims, if proven valid, in a manner satisfactory to all — not just Mr. Wildman and the natives.

Malden's influence even hits Muscovites

And I'm sad to report that it's about to get even easier.

The next time you go through the supermarket checkout the clerk may well ask you, "Will that be cash or charge?"

Yes, credit cards are coming to grocery stores. It's already happened at an Associated Supermarket in New York city, where shoppers can now pay for their weekly groceries with credit cards. Executives from Visa and Mastercard International can be spotted peeping over the tiered display of canned kidney beans in Aisle Five, taking notes and cheering under their breath.

But supermarkets aren't the only new target for credit card companies. They've mounted an offensive in the Soviet Union as well.

For the first time in history, Muscovites can know the thrill of carrying plastic, instead of rubles, in their wallets. Kredobank cards, issued in a joint deal with Visa International, will allow carriers to buy goodies at more than one thousand commercial outlets across the Soviet Union.

"In just one day we have received 20 applications.", cooed Igor Lipanov, director of Kredobank. "I think there will be significant demand."

Indeed. And think how much more demand there will be once there are actual goods on the shelves of those one thousand commercial outlets.

Then every Kredobank card holder can lumber him or herself with insupportable burdens of personal debt and become free, prosperous and enlightened just like we Westerners.

Hartwick Construction blanks Sid Stamp, 5-0

Once again the Minden Men's Recreational Hockey League offered just about everything a hockey fan could ask for last Monday evening. The opening game saw Home Hardware and Kountry Double D Catering play to a 4-4 tie, Hartwick Construction shut-out Sid Stamp Fuels 5-0 and The Times doubled the score on Westside Jug City 6-3.

The first game appeared to be a Double D run-away as they notched four goals in the first period, after Gary Harrison opened the scoring for Home on a pass from Louie Reynolds and George Crofts. However Home was able to whittle the lead down to a single goal with an unassisted effort by Dean Hewitt and a goal by Reynolds assisted by Glenn Hall and John Ballantyne.

Scott Hamilton led the charge for Double D scoring three of the markers while Tim Hunter notched the other. Assists went to Tom Haley with three, Corey Walker with a pair and Andy McKenzie with one.

The final period was scoreless until the closing seconds when Dean Hewitt found the mark for Home Hardware and was able to even the score. Assisting him on the tie-maker was Dave Rogers and Daryl Ward.

Terry Crowe was in net for Home Hardware while Duane Lennie was the Double D goal keeper.

The second contest of the evening was a Hartwick Construction steam roller as they blanked Stamps 5-0. Barry Boice picked up a pair of goals and two assists to lead his team to the win. Other goals were scored by Sid MacKeigan, Kevin Hamilton and Tom Miscio. Assists went to Boice with a pair and single from Dave Dollo, Brian Marquette, Miscio, Colin Wilson and Jeff Stamp.

Correction

In a front-page story last week regarding the county land division committee's decision to approve a severance for a back lot in Minden, we defined a back lot as being within 1,000 feet of a lake without having frontage on the water.

Actually, Minden's official plan does not have a definition of a back-lot. Municipal planner Bob Lehman suggested that the 1,000-foot criteria be used as a guideline, but each lot be looked at individually to determine if it is a back lot.

Interpretation of what constitutes a back lot is open to the planning advisory committee, council and the land division committee.

In the specific case mentioned in last week's story, both the planning committee members and council felt the property was a back lot and denied the severance. That decision was over-turned by the land division committee which granted the severance.

Westside Jug City goes down in defeat, 6-3

shut-out for Hartwick while Kevin Smith was in net for Stamps.

Except for The Times opening goal, all the scoring was in the final period for the last game of the evening which saw Westside go down to a 6-3 defeat. The single marker in the first frame was scored by Kelly Gilles with assists going to Dan Allison and Doug Allison.

Westside responded in the second period, with Jerry Campbell finding the mark off a pass from Jeff Howe and Mike Keaney. However, The Times charged back with three goals to give them a strong edge. Scoring were Dan Allison, Derek Moore and Doug Allison, unassisted, with Doug Allison, Fraser Rogers, Craig Crowe and Ivan Ingram getting the assists on the other two goals.

One more goal by Westside, off the stick of Ron May, assisted by Jeff Howe, was not enough to turn the game around. In fact, two unassisted efforts by Doug Allison and Kelly Gilles wrapped up the evening for The Times.

Ron Telford was in net for Westside while Andrew Burk guarded the opposite end of the rink.

The teams take to the ice again this Monday evening with Hartwick playing Westside at 8 p.m. Times taking on Double D at 9 p.m. and the final game between Home and Stamp at 10 p.m. Admission to the games is free.

Health study benefits Haliburton County per cent of Ontario's $2.2 billion long-term care budget is spent on nursing homes, homes for the aged and chronic care facilities, even though a majority of people would rather stay in their own homes rather than being placed in an institution.

The province plans to increase support to community services which will allow residents to stay in their homes.

The government will increase long-term spending by more than $640 million and $400 million of that will be directed to community services with the remaining $200 million going to institutions.

Although the number of long-term beds in Ontario will not increase in the next several years, distribution of those beds will shift to address under-serviced areas of the province.

Ferenc said the recent announcement of 30 new long-term beds for Haliburton County is one of the first examples of this redistribution.

Currently institutions like Hyland Crest offer both extended care and residential beds, and receive funding based on the number of each bed they offer.

Extended care is for people who require more than 90 minutes a day of nursing and personal care. Residential care is for people requiring less than 90 minutes of care.

Ferenc said the system does not address the needs of individual residents.

At Hyland Crest, there are 20 extended care beds and 42 residential care beds, but most residents require more than the 90 minutes of care per day -- the funding given to the home does not reflect the amount of care provided.

Under the proposed reforms, institutions would receive funding based on the type of care required by residents, not the kinds of beds.

The needs of each resident would be assessed, and the individual would be designated as needing one of seven levels of care.

The institution would receive the appropriate funding according to the level of care required by each resident.

In order to reduce the reliance on institutions, the province believes that community-based services must be enhanced and better coordinated.

The services, which include Meals on Wheels, family support, home maintenance, transportation and adult day programs, are offered by more than 500 community agencies in the province, run by 10,000 volunteers and 3,000 paid staff.

Ministry employee Alan Cavell told the meeting that many of these services are fragmented and not every service is offered in every community in the province.

The government is proposing that access to these services be coordinated through a single agency in each community.

Deb Hart McKittrick explained that 40 service access agencies would be established in the province and would provide a single agency through which people could receive a variety of services.

She said many people receive very little services, either because they don't know the services exist or they don't know how to access them. The service coordination agencies would simplify the process by establishing one office for all services.

"It's a complex thing we're tying to do," Ferenc said of the long-term reform. "There are a lot of the things the government is trying to change, and it won't take place overnight. The rules of the game as we know it are all going to change."

After the meeting, Ferenc told The Times that Haliburton County is ahead of the reform process due to the plan on long-term care which was completed earlier this year.

He said a local committee will be formed in late January or early February to begin implementation of some of the recommendations contained in the report.

The reform process in Haliburton County will proceed hand-in-hand with the provincial effort, said Ferenc.

In March, another series of meetings will be held to receive feedback from the residents and discuss possible changes to the proposed reforms.

Pee Wees skate off with 9th win of season

Submitted

The OMHA Pee Wee team hosted Fenelon Falls on Saturday, November 30th, and came away with their 9th win of the season.

The two teams started off the first period with some good end to end hockey, but it soon became apparent that Minden had a definite edge on strength and speed. In spite of their more dominant style, Minden just couldn't seem to find the net.

There were several good chances but that first goal turned out to be allusive in the first period.

Minden's Andrew McKelvey had probably the best opportunity of the period from the point. McKelvey tied up a pass out from the corner and let a blast go that went high and right, much to the relief of the Fenelon goaltender.

Minden continued to control the play in the second period and at 13:30 the puck found its' way back out to the point and a waiting McKelvey.

This time the shot was on the mark and although the Fenelon goalie got his glove on it the puck had such velocity that it just kept going, goaltender in tow to put Minden up one-zip. The goal seemed to open the game up a little and with the increased pace

Minden's limited positional play disappeared. There were some very exciting moments though as players bunched and suddenly there would be a break out of three Minden players who tried to make or did make some interesting passes to set a teammate up.

Unfortunately the Fenelon goaltender was on his game this day and shut out Minden for the remainder of the period.

The third period opened with great puck control by Minden in the Fenelon defensive zone for over three minutes. Finally, Minden's Dennis Woods took a pass from Marty Dettman and poked in Minden's second goal of the game at 11.51. Fenelon started to lay on the body and put a bone cruncher on Minden's Chris Eskelin. The only effect it had was to "wake the sleeping dog" and on his next possession, Eskelin decked a couple of Fenelon players and moved up the ice to let a low, hard shot go that found the bottom corner of the Fenelon net at 11.01. That ended the scoring for the game but not the excitement.

It is the little things such as Minden's goaltender, Justin Rowden, getting on the referees for calling a FENELON offside. He had only faced about three shots all game and was looking forward to a little action.

Or when Tom Bagshaw checks an opponent twice his size and comes away the victor. (Great effort in that department Tommy!) McKelvey had several good chances at the time clock with that hard, albeit high, shot from the point and one line started to play position a little better after one exuberant fan encouraged them. (Moms always know best, right Marg?).

This team continues to win dominantly if not decisively and are well worth coming out to see. Next home game is December 14 against Cannington.

On Monday, December 2 the OMHA Pee Wees travelled to Oakwood for their 11th game of the season. This was to be Minden's night. They were, from the drop of the puck, all over the Oakwood team, who seemed rather intimated by Minden's size and determination. Once you add that the Oakwood goaltender lacked the experience and confidence to play OMHA hockey, it was like a pin prink to a balloon for Oakwood. Minden's Chris Eskelin started off the scoring at 7.20 of the first period with a pass from Marty Dettman. Minden's second goal was by way of a great set up from behind the net by Jeff Wray out to the point where Eskelin was ready to let a blast go that bulged the twine in the upper right corner. Although Minden was dominant during the entire first period, that's all she wrote folks. Many chances to score went by the wayside because their timing was off or one too many passes were made in the pursuit of the "perfect" goal. Rule of thumb - If you are in the slot, take the shot.

The second period proved to be a little more of a coordinated attack. Andrew McKelvey scored for Minden at 14.24 after a poor clearing attempt by Oakwood. He stepped in to the puck that was by the goaltender before

Two volleyball teams from Archie Stouffer Elementary School competed in a recent tri-county tournament.

The annual event, hosted by J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School, featured 11 teams, made up of students in grades seven and eight, from schools in Haliburton, Victoria and Hastings County.

The Archie Stouffer girls team made it into the semi-final round and lost their last game by just two points, after playing six games in a row.

The boys team missed advancing to the semi-finals, in a game that came down to the final serve.

Scugog Frolics gives skaters chance to show-off their talents

The younger members of the Minden Figure Skating Club had a chance to show off their talents recently.

On Saturday, November 30, eight of the skaters attended the annual Scugog Frolics competition in Lindsay.

This competition is for skaters in the Canskate program, or the lower levels of the test stream. The results are:

Pre-novice A:
Megan Hirstwood, 3rd
Kerri Matysek, 1st
Pre-novice C:
Jennifer Wales, 9th
Juvenile A:
Melissa Hartwick, 6th
Sarah Wilbee, 5th
Introductory B:
Keri Hartwick, 7th
Krista Matysek, 3rd
Introductory C:
Jessica Berry, 8th

This was the season's first competition for these skaters, and it was a job well done. Congratulations girls!

Pee Wees must learn to love game above the prize

he knew it. Dennis Woods scored next at 11.13 after a pass in from Eskelin and a scrum around the Oakwood net. It was Woods who scored again at 9.24 after a nice pass out by Curtis Fielding to McKelvey who threw a wrist shot at the nest that was tipped through the Five hole by Woods. So farm, Minden - 5, Oakwood - Zip. Minden started off the game with only nine forwards and with one of them, Tom Bagshaw, obviously under the weather, Woods saw a lot of ice time. At 8.16 Woods popped his third of the night on a super pass from Wray. Take a bow Dennis for the Hat Trick, good effort to be in the right place at the right time. Special mention to Jeff, who has worked hard of late to move the puck to his teammates, very obviously with good results.

Marty Dettman scored next for Minden at 6.03 on a combination pass from Wray to Eskelin to Dettman. Good effort! At 2.24 it was Minden's Dave Raback who scored from another pass out by Wray. This was quickly followed by a pass from Raback to dettman who tallied Minden's 8th goal Not to be out done, Woods picked up a loose puck going across the slot, turned and fired for his fourth goal of the night.

To close out the scoring for the period, Fielding fired in a shot after a combination passing play from Wray to McKelvey, who fed Fielding. The entire second period was, for the most part, a very good team effort, both offensively and defensively.

The only two goals of the third period were individual efforts. McKelvey scored at 14.02 and Fielding scored at 12.47. Both goals were realized after great effort on the part of these two players to pick up a loose puck in the neutral zone and fight their way to scoring position. There were three or four displays of pinpoint passing because, from where this writer sat, it appeared as though thoughts of self sacrifice and team effort gave way to thoughts of individual glory and running the score up. final score was Minden 13, Oakwood 0. Unfortunately Minden's goaltender, Justin Rowden had very few shots all evening. He did however have to make two or three tremendous saves after Minden let their play lapse. Shut out number 6!!

Like a rock, Justin, always there when you are needed. Also special mention Daniel Howell for another solid blue line performance and to Tom Bagshaw for a gritty effort when you were feeling lousy.

Enthusiasm is a great thing. It does however, sometimes cloud our judgement. Perhaps a revue of the aims of the OMHA would be in order. They state, in part:

"To incalculate in the players certain ideals; to play fairly under all circumstances and all conditions; to give opponents a fair chance and not take unfair advantage of any opponent; to set the cause above renoun and to love the game above the prize."

Remembering 14 who died

Women and men burned candles to honour those who died in the Montreal massacre

by Susan Grober

Two years ago, on December 6, a madman entered a classroom in Montreal's Ecole Polytechnique engineering school, separated the women from the men, and shot and murdered 13 female students and one female clerk.

Today the Montreal massacre has become a symbol of violence against women everywhere.

And close to 50 people gathered in downtown Haliburton last Friday, forming a circle in front of the Village Barn to remember these deaths.

The vigil brought women and men together, and many passers-by stopped to join the group. About 15 men took part, and a number of them wore white ribbons to support a national campaign organized by men to protest male violence against women.

Those present shared feelings of sorrow, rage, hope and peace, while holding candles which burned despite a bitter, chilling wind.

And the vigil ended with all linking arms for a moment of silence for those lost.

To open the time of remembrance, Jude King of the YWCA Women's Safety Network said she is saddened that, as a woman, she is: "overwhelmed by a feeling that you're in danger."

However, King was encouraged by the turnout at the vigil, and was pleased to see a number of men making a statement by wearing the ribbons.

"It makes me feel really good that we're together, and we're here, and we're going to make a difference."

King also praised local high school students for a recent play, called Mirror Game, which showed the effects violence has on our society.

Next Annegreth Gerrard, also of the Safety Network, read out the names of the 14 Montreal women, as a lighter was passed around the circle and a candle was lit for each name.

In the middle of the circle, one rose was placed for each of the slain women — a 15th rose was placed for women in Haliburton County who have been murdered.

Following this ceremony, Reverend Ed Moll, a United Church minister, performed a song he wrote two years ago in response to the tragedy. Entitled A Short, Straight Line, the song is an anguished cry against the mores of society which allow violence against women.

"It's a short, straight line from the word to the fist, it's a short straight line from the whistle to the rape," sang Moll.

Through the song, Moll admonished establishments which treat women like "pieces of meat," and where men "get their rocks off" by treating women like dirt.

The song also commented on situations where a woman must walk on eggs when her husband comes home, not knowing whether he may fly into a rage. "He calls her a bitch, and throws her to the floor, while the kids hear it all through the bedroom door."

Michael James, a local mental health therapist, said he was happy to see so many men taking part in the white ribbon campaign.

James said the aggressiveness of the male is often directed outward for survival, and that men must take responsibility and realize "violence is our problem."

He called on men to observe, not only their own behaviour, but also the actions of others who, for example, may use profanity against women or push them around.

"When we see violence against women, we have to take a stand against it," James said.

He added that male violence takes many forms. "I'd like to ask men to think, when was the last time you got your own way in an argument because you're the breadwinner? When was the last time you got what you wanted because of your gender?"

Caroline Bishop said many say they don't understand why women allow themselves to be abused by men.

All too often the problem is ignored, said Bishop, who used as an example Marie Antoinette's infamous reaction to the starving masses who begged for bread. The queen said, "Let them eat cake."

"To the aristocracy at the time, the idea of hunger was inconceivable, and therefore invisible," said Bishop.

She stressed the importance of the gathering, saying it calls to light the problems of male violence against women. "To begin the healing, we must make it visible."

Brad Owens, 19, said he was disappointed that few teenagers turned out for the vigil. Owens said he asked fellow high school students why they didn't plan to attend, and many said they feel "abuse is an adult thing."

"We don't change a heck of a lot after we reach a certain age," he said, adding, "My friends won't change."

Owens said attitudes must change before women can feel safe from violence.

"Why do men have to feel so violent toward women, so they have to stay home at night?" he asked with frustration.

High school teacher Patty Brydon agreed with Owens' sentiments. But she said the reaction of the students who took part in, and watched, the play Mirror Game showed that more people are aware of violence in our society.

"Everyone in that auditorium was deeply moved," said Brydon. "It had a profound effect in classrooms afterward."

She felt more students didn't attend because they haven't received enough information on the vigil, and its meaning.

"We have to educate them, and they will be here."

To remember the 14 women who were murdered in Montreal two years ago will help bring changes in society, said one woman.

"Their lives are very meaningful. Education and remembrance — that's what this is all about."

Students tops in magazine sales

by Susan Grober

Those who purchased or renewed magazine subscriptions through a drive held by Archie Stouffer Elementary students have helped raise over $9,000 for the school.

This year, the Grade 4 to 8 students sold an impressive $28,000 worth of magazine subscriptions, more than any other school in north-eastern Ontario.

For this effort, the students received a trophy last Wednesday

"For a school this size, it's just utterly fantastic that the students have sold that number," says Harold Howlett, who works for the company, a subsidiary of Reader's Digest and Maclean Hunter, which runs the subscription program.

The second top-selling school in Howlett's district is in Orangeville. Howlett says he would have expected a school the size of Archie Stouffer would be lucky to hit the $20,000 mark.

"It's especially fantastic to see the students made this effort in a recession year," Howlett added. "There certainly is a good morale in this school."

The students were encouraged to sell to friends, relatives and neighbours, rather than risk going door-to-door.

Teacher Dale McConnell says the school has been involved in the program seven years, and sold $12,000 worth of subscriptions the first year.

Staff members also got involved in the program, to help encourage students to sell. Some male teachers painted half of their beards in wild shades of blue, green and yellow. Female teachers allowed students to paint them with makeup. And the Grade 4 teachers allowed students to throw cream pies in their faces.

When students hit the $8,000 mark, two teachers sang the national anthem over the school's PA system. At the $22,000 mark, some male teachers went unshaven for a week. And at $25,000, McConnell (who some students call Harrigan) dressed up as a leprechaun.

The students received many prizes as incentives for selling, as well. One of the prizes offered by the company were furry, little toys called Weepuls. Also, several draws were held for such prizes as posters.

A stuffed tiger mascot spent time in each top-selling classroom. And the top-selling of all the classes enjoyed a pizza party.

The program was run by the student council. And it's not yet been decided how the school's share of the money raised will be spent.

In previous years, money was used to purchase such items as video cameras, television sets, and music sweaters, says McConnell.

Christmas boxes ready to be filled

The annual Christmas Boxes drive is in full swing. Through the avenue of the Boxes the people of our local communities express their interest in those who are less fortunate.

This is the fourth consecutive year that Ken and Laurie Leonard of the Canadian Sunday School Mission have acted as central coordinators for Minden and neighboring communities. Last year 51 homes were recipients of generous food boxes.

All the people who are involved are volunteers. The non-perishable food, toys, knitted and other hand made things must be sorted, packed and then delivered to the homes. Money is given to the families in the form of food vouchers redeemable at a local grocery store.

Around Minden you will notice some collection bins. They will have: Minden Food Bank, C.U.P.E. or Christmas Help Boxes signs on them. These bins are placed so that you can conveniently place your contributions at these drop off points. All that is collected will be delivered just a few days before Christmas.

Also, the St. Paul's Anglican Church on North Water St. in Minden is another location as a drop off depot. This is also the head quarters of the year round Minden food bank.

You may direct any inquires to 286-5162 (office of the Canadian Sunday School Mission.)

1992: A chance for new beginnings

Reflections

by David Suzuki

1992 will be a portentous year. For one thing, it will mark the 500th anniversary of Christopher Columbus' arrival in the New World.

With the media presence of native people at an unprecedented peak, the great "benefits" of the Columbus invasion are being radically reassessed. From the perspective of the aboriginal people and the native flora and fauna, the consequences of their "discovery" by Europe was disastrous. The quincentenary "celebration" will undoubtedly be a mixed event.

On the environmental front, 1992 will be the 20th anniversary of the Stockholm Conference on the Environment and the year of the Earth Summit in June in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Rio will provide a global platform for politicians and government bureaucrats to present their perspectives on the environment. Canada will play a crucial role in Rio. The driving force behind the meeting is the ubiquitous Canadian businessman, Maurice Strong.

Strong, who organized the first conference in Stockholm, was a Canadian representative on the UN-appointed Brundtland Commission on Development and the Environment and is in charge of the Rio agenda.

In a recent interview, he was optimistic about the possibility to achieve national agreement on major environmental issues. He is determined not to preside over a disaster, but once the cameras had stopped, he admitted the political infighting is ferocious and he is extremely worried it could degenerate into a media circus.

The Stockholm conference was reported on The Nature of Things in 1972 and I recently pulled the program out for a screening. After the initial shock of bell bottoms, sideburns and familiar faces 20 years younger, we are struck by the fact that all the main issues today - population growth, over-consumption, toxic pollution, species extinction, even atmospheric change - were forcefully raised in 1972.

Hindsight makes it clear that responses to environmental problems were far simpler, cheaper and more effective than they would be today. So today we should extrapolate from current curves of population growth, extinction and pollution into the future.

The worst case scenarios should then serve as the basis on which we make decisions. By leaping around and looking back to the present, it appears we still have time to avoid catastrophe if we act now.

The Rio conference will reflect changes since Stockholm. The importance of the environment as a political issue is reflected in the expectation that heads of state from most countries will attend.

As well, indigenous people will be a powerful presence and should attract wide media attention. They will be on the program agenda and have their own area for a village and traditional activities.

But what will make or break Rio are the decisions being made now by delegates meeting to draft the program and an environmental declaration for all to sign. A massive chasm separates the industrialized countries (North) form the developing nations (South).

The North is concerned with deforestation, pollution and population increase while the South is preoccupied with debt relief, transfer of technology and overconsumption by the North.

In the political horse-trading, compromises being made for the sake of consensus could water down the official pronouncements. The fear is that politicians will arrive, announce their love of the Earth, call on everyone to work to save the planet and then leave.

There is a huge opportunity and responsibility for the hundreds of environmental groups that will attend. They must resist the temptation to expend their energy bashing politicians and overcome their jealousies and territoriality in order to seize the moment.

They could capture center-stage by documenting the state of the world, describing a vision of a truly sustainable future and laying out a concrete strategy to move the world towards that vision.

It would be a global call to arms, a battle to save the mother of us all - Mother Earth.

Bird count this Saturday

It seems hard to believe that we have been conducting this annual census of winterizing birds in the Minden area for a quarter century, but it's true. On Saturday December 14 we will be out once again checking feeders and scouring lakes and streams, woods and fields as part of the 92nd Christmas bird count. More than 1600 similar counts will take place throughout North America, as far south as Brazil, and in the South Pacific. More than 40,000 people will take part.

Last year there was a poor crop of cones and seeds on the trees in Haliburton County resulting in few wintering small finches. This year the birches especially have an excellent crop and small finches are much more common. Redpolls have moved south from the Arctic in the largest numbers in years, and will be showing up at feeders, if they haven't already. Goldfinches, in their drab winter colors, are also quite plentiful. It should be an exciting winter for people with bird feeders. (The key to having lots of birds visiting is to stock your feeder early in the season.)

Locally 15 to 220 field observers will be involved, but what really makes the count here a success is to have as many local people as possible participate by phoning to let us know what birds are at your feeders or in your neighborhoods. We would really like to know ahead of time about any birds you've seen that you don't normally see around, at least at this time of year. Equally important, is to keep track of the number of birds of each species you see on December 14, and phone in that total after 6 p.m. on the 14th, or during the day on the 15th. The number to call is 286-1189. (If you're calling before the 14th, you could also call Ron Pittaway at 286-3471. Ron is home in the evenings.)

Birds that we would especially like to hear about ahead of time include waterfowl (ducks, geese or loons), gray jays, blackbirds, mourning doves, cardinals and juncos. This year northern owls, such as snowy and hawk owls, have left the Arctic due to a crash in the number of lemmings, one of their major food sources. Since these owls are active in daylight and perch atop trees or on fence posts, they're easy to spot. For the last two years a bald eagle has been seen in mid December at Sandy Bay on Gull Lake. Sparrows or small finches that are visiting your feeding station, or feeding on weed or tree seeds in your yard are of interest as well.

Most important, however, is to keep track of the numbers of the more usual birds (bluejays, chickadees, nuthatches, woodpeckers and evening grossbeaks) you see on December 14 and phone that total in so that it can be included in the final tally. These results are then sent to the National Audubon Society to be published in the Christmas bird count issue of their magazine, American Birds. Last year's observers counted more than 53 million birds across North America. The results of these counts are used by scientists to monitor changes in bird populations and recommend protective action for those species in decline.

The count covers a 15 mile diameter circle centered southeast of Minden. It stretches from Moore Falls to Mountain Lake to Ingoldsby to Lochlin to Gelert to Irondale to Kinmount. If you live in that area, we hope you'll do your part to make the 25th Minden Christmas bird count the best ever.

Grants for diabetics

The Ministry of Health, Assistive Device Program has announced that effective immediately, diabetic seniors in Ontario are eligible for a $125 annual grant to help cover the costs of needles and syringes used for insulin.

This will pay for about 75% of the annual cost for the average insulin user. Seniors do not have to pay for insulin.

For further information contact the Ministry of Health, Assistive Device Program at 1-800-286-6021.

Applications for the grant are available at your nearest Information Center.

In Haliburton, the center is located in the Drag River Municipal Building, Maple Ave., open Monday - Friday 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., phone 457-2733.

For residents of the Minden area, the office in Anson, Hindon and Minden Municipal Building, Main St., is open Monday and Tuesday, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., phone 286-4100.

If you reside outside the toll free area, you may call collect. Many agencies in the County need volunteers to run their programs on a continuing basis or short-term for special projects. If you feel you would like to assist, please contact your nearest Information Center.

Pettinger rink wins 'spiel

by Aileen Blears

It's not what you don't have;

It's what you do with what you have.

Minden Senior Curlers no longer have their youth, but they sure make good use of "the golden years."

Sunday, December first was a Fun Day at Minden Curling Club. Sixty-four curlers took part on the ice, and about the same number skipped from behind the glass.

Ed Pettinger's team was the overall winner, but only by a straw as he and Herb Gill had to throw one stone each in order to break a tie.

Popular with the spectators was the corner-to-corner competition by the skips. John Thomas won this. Corner-to-corner looks like a long way, but Norm Gilmore noted that the distance is only eight feet longer than from hack to house.

As usual, there was plenty of good food by way of pot-luck from the members' kitchens.

Many of those attending won door prizes. This was an interesting concept - winners of the draw received a "chance on a chance" on a draw for a trip to Las Vegas. If a senior curler wins this prize, that city will never be the same.

With only two days in which to recuperate, the Minden Senior Curling Club hosted a Haliburton-Minden Bonspiel. On Tuesday, December third, the weather was, in a word, lousy - snow, sleet, freezing rain, wind. Many schools were closed, but the curlers had evidently not heard the weather report, they were on hand, on time, and ready to go. Tony Dymott, Ross Codlin and Frank Codlin were at the helm for this Spiel, and they steered it well.

Gallery seats were at a premium as Haliburton and Minden rooters tried to out-do each other with cheers and window tapping for a well-thrown stone. It was all good-natured, and no bones were broken.

The over-all winner was a team from Haliburton, Marg Bull, Jim Stacey, Phyllis Woodcock and Norm Emley. The skip accepted the Art Hodgekinson Trophy, and introduced her team.

First draw winner (another Haliburton team) was skipped by Bill Juby with Joan P. Brown, Ross Partridge and John Avison.

Second place in the second draw was from Minden, Tom Hurtta, Gladys Wruth, Jim Bradbury and Ted Wilkes. A Minden team skipped by Stan Hill and Omar Legere, Vi Walsh and Shirley Duff took third place in the second draw.

Minden seemed to be the bridesmaid in this Spiel with Haliburton emerging as the bride, but there is a rumour that Minden caught the bonquet, and will surely be back in the limelight when the two clubs meet again at Haliburton on January 31, 1991. There were no losers - the day was a complete success, from the first coffee and doughnut to the last "so long for now", and "thanks for a wonderful time". Angela O'Neill and her helpers saw to it that everyone went home filled with the joy of good food which was served with a smile.

Seal target $40,000

The Lung Association, Victoria-Haliburton Counties is in the midst of the annual Christmas Seal Campaign. After 5 weeks, the campaign has brought in $22,855. The goal for this years' campaign is $40,000.

Funds raised through the appeal are used in our area to help children and adults with lung disease. Some of the funds are also used to support The Lung Association activity in classrooms, teaching children how to maintain healthy lungs. A portion of the money goes toward research.

The Christmas Seal Campaign continues over the holiday season. The Lung Association is asking for your support, to help reach the goal for this appeal. This year, send the wish of good health along with your season's greeting, by using Christmas Seals. For over 85 years they have been helping Canadians breathe easier.

Birthdays celebrated at weekly tea party

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

I had a pleasant surprise Saturday afternoon when my sister, May Cameron and her daughter Jackie, dropped in from Peterborough. We went to Hilda LaRue's and had lunch uptown in Haliburton. Roy was not well enough to go.

Sunday evening chapel service was conducted as usual by Rev. John Burgess with Alice Jones at the organ. We appreciate and thank you both.

Monday was a very busy day with Keep Fit in the morning. At one o' clock Evelyn Coleman had bible study on the Mustard Seed Parable. Many thanks to Evelyn. Hyland Crest Auxiliary came at two o' clock to plan their program for the month of December. The movies were presented by Tom McAllister.

Tuesday morning chapel service was conducted by Rev. Fast and we thank him sincerely. Silvert's came and set up their wares in the auditorium. They must have had a successful day judging by how the residents came in and out all day. They had some lovely clothes and quite reasonable prices.

I sincerely wish to thank all the ladies who came in to finish a quilt that needed to be done. They made a lovely job of it.

We were happy to have Rheta Jones, Administrator, on duty again after a two week vacation spent in England and Scotland.

Thursday afternoon was tea party time again. This week "Or Lady of Fatima" Catholic Church ladies provided the lovely tea as well as a lovely birthday cake for residents with birthdays in November. These were: Ellen Bastien, November 13, Gladys Whyte, November 15, Mary Burgess, November 18, Margaret Sisson, November 18, Mable Buttery, November 23 and Mary McKelvey, November 24. Congratulations ladies. To liven things up we had a sing song of Christmas carols. Doris played the piano and the ladies singing made a joyous afternoon. The ladies were Molly McCarthey, Fern Donnely, Georgina Deeks, Aileen Blears and Ann Mahar. We thank them greatly.

Nancy and Troy Briggs called bingo in the evening and we certainly thank them for an enjoyable evening.

Friday was Happy Hour with Mike and Connie Biagi and Frank Faulkner provided the entertainment.

(Intended for last week's edition.)

Sunday night chapel service was held by Rev. John Burgess and Alice Jones played the organ. Thanks Rev. Burgess and Alice.

We were happy to welcome Evelyn Coleman back Monday to conduct our bible study again. She is still studying the parables of Jesus.

Monday evening Tom McAllister showed films in the auditorium. One was in two parts, "The Thoroughbred", and the other was a short one, "Snow Monkeys of Japan." Thank you, Tom, very much.

November 18 were Mary Burgess; and Margaret Sisson's birthdays along with Mable Buttery's on the 23 and Mary McKelvey's on the 24. Congratulations ladies.

Tuesday morning began with chapel service conducted by Rev. Ed Moll. The residents thank him greatly. In the afternoon, Bonnie Lee Berry brought her school class to the auditorium. These students are the pen pals of some of the residents at Hyland Crest. The purpose of this afternoon was so the two groups could meet. The students had prepared a program to present during their visit. They planned the program entirely by themselves. The program contained piano playing, singing, gymnastics, karate and three students who explained how their medical problems are being treated. They even did their own announcing. Bonnie Lee can surely be very proud of her students and we enjoyed the afternoon immensely.

Wednesday was our annual shopping trip. This year we went to Huntsville. The weather was bad but we had a good day. n The volunteers who helped the residents were: Laura and Dick Kirkwood, Jean Robson, Mable Deacon, Barbara Todd, Vera Smith, Betty Herlihey and organizers Linda Fry, Doris Robertson and Greg Sawyer. Those residents who went thank you all from the bottom of our hearts.

Thursday was our usual tea party provided and served by the Agricultural Society of Minden. Edna Taylor, Ruth Ann Bryant, May Kernohan, Shirley Cox, Beryl Henderson, Gwen Robinson, Joan Moore, Mary Cox and Jean Bowron. An extra festive addition to the tea was a special table for our Century Club ladies and their guests. They are: Lillian Curry, 103 on December 10, Isabel Eastman, 102 on September 9, Mary Oliver, 102 on September 26 and Lucy Burgess, 100 on October 9. Special guests were Alice Dana, Assistant to Dennis Drainville, M.P.P and Bern Berry, reeve of Minden, who made presentations to each lady. It was an enjoyable and lovely afternoon.

Thursday night Mrs. Gedget called bingo for us. It was the first time Mrs. Gedget had called bingo, but she did a good job. We sincerely thank her.

Happy Hour was held again Friday with Bill Payne, Eldon Deacon, George Smith and Don Whyte providing the entertainment. The residents do enjoy their music. Happy Hour was well served by the faithful volunteers Don and Ellen Holden and Mary Guillemin with our thanks.
